

Retail Price List June 2025 – April 2026

We have kept this document simple and just listed our trees by name rather than including descriptions which can be viewed online on our web site.

We do some grafting ourselves and have another grafter in the UK who has done some for us but most come from Europe due to lack of scion wood & Carya rootstocks and time and experience, walnuts are one of the most difficult hardwoods to graft successfully. These small specialist suppliers in the Netherlands graft Carya and Juglans amongst other fruits and nuts and have the largest collection of rare and unusual cultivated Juglandaceae in Europe I would think. The commercial orchard varieties from France, USA etc mostly come from Bulgaria and are very robust Bare-Rooted trees lifted early in the winter to join trees we've grown on here.

Trees are grafted annually in January-May in northern Europe however in warmer climates they can be field bud grafted in summer so the commercial bare-root cultivars are often a year older (16-17m from grafting), hence their size when we receive them.

Many of the cultivated walnut species trees are bare-rooted where we are able but a few will be pot grown, usually in 3-7L pots. Bare-root plants will be lifted when dormant, probably the end of November.

All the Carya cultivars which are grown in pots (they do not transplant well!), with new trees available in September we hope. We will have a limited number of Pecan cultivars this year along with some hickories and Hicans but not as many as hoped due to the passing of Ton Friesen of De Smallekamp and the limited amount of scion wood available. There are 3 new Shellbark Hickories and 1 new Pecan and next year we'll maybe have a few new ones again, these are likely the only ones for sale and we never know if we'll get them again.

A few of the hickories and all the Hicans are last year's grafting and consequently getting up to 1-1.5m so will soon be collection only.

New Cultivars and Red Kernels

Over the last 8 years I've sourced as many cultivars as I can that were of potential interest for either commercial orchards or unusual nuts. We have a few more Heartnut cultivars that I haven't had for a while, there are 17 cultivars at present as we got lucky last year and got twice what we'd normally expect. There are small numbers of 4 more black walnut cultivars as I wanted to put a few in here, these won't be available again consistently I don't think once they're gone.

There are a few Red Kernelled varieties in stock, probably collection only and in future we'll only stock Purpureov & Kardinal I think. We have small numbers of some modern commercial cultivars in pots, these are UK grafted and 40-80cm usually, they're the surplus from our own plantings here.

We've also started to concentrate on special pollinators for commercial orchards, trialling a number of different cultivars for very late pollen, we'll have some this year but hope to have more regular availability in the future as our knowledge increases.

Lastly we have grafted some of our own selected seedlings, we have 5 that we've selected to graft and 4 available in limited numbers this year. These are all very late into leaf on a par with Franquette/Fernor and have lateral fruiting with a nice nut on average 28-32mm, heavier shells than most commercial nuts but ideally suited to late frost areas or northern latitudes. They are partially self-fertile, overlapping quite well most years with heavy late pollen.

Collection and Delivery

Local collection (CV36 5AR) by appointment (Tom Tame 07816 674854) is our preferred option as there is no chance of any damage or loss in transit, we also save the packaging (and the planet) and we get to meet others interested in walnuts! We can also deliver locally if required at 50p per mile within 20 miles, further afield for large quantities.

We offer a 5% discount for collection of 5 or more trees

This is now the only option for the larger bare-root cultivars sold in the winter or anything over 1m tall unless you are willing to pay a large surcharge.

We offer a mail order service for smaller trees only (Max parcel of 1.2m in length) but parcel companies willing to take trees are diminishing rapidly.

Next day from £13.00

Delivery to UK non-mainland & NI is no longer available.

Any damage to a parcel must be notified on the delivery ticket and if possible a photo taken at the same time. Trees should be unpacked and watered the same day, we don't send them dry, but they will appreciate the drink.
